MISS MARJORIE S. CRAWLEY

MISS MAIZIE E. SMITH

TO Miss Marjorie S. Crawley, Miss Maizie E. Smith, Mrs. Marion F. Woodruff, and Mr. Antonio Gentile, who, during their years of service to Gloucester High School, have held a high place of honor in the hearts of their pupils, we, the Class of 1952, respectfully dedicate our Flicker. Through their conscientious effort and generous co-operation, they have contributed to the success of our high school careers. We hope, then, by this dedication, to express our gratitude for the sincere friendship which they have shown towards us and the invaluable instruction which they have given us.

MRS. MARION F. WOODRUFF

MR. ANTONIO GENTILE

MR. ARTHUR N. SMITH

Principal

To the Class of 1952:

It is pleasant for us of the faculty to see you reach the graduation time for which you have worked during the past four years. We are glad with you that you have reached the first major goal of your lives. Yet, in a way, we are sorry to see you leave our school to go on your separate ways. You have been a good class.

The world into which you now move is a troubled world. All the wonderful and speedy means of communication at our disposal tell us so, continually and emphatically. But the world has always been troubled, and youth has always moved courageously into it to assume obligations not of their making, and to perform duties not of their own choice. It is now your turn.

The world is still your oyster; there are pearls waiting in it for you to find.

Wherever you go and whatever you do, we wish you luck. We have tried to steer you into the habits and ways which have engendered success throughout history. We hope we have helped you. We hope we have given you the tools with which you can help yourselves.

Good luck.

In this June, 1964 issue of "TV'S TOPS," editors Norma Blatchford and Beverly Coose are reviewing recent television programs upon which members of the 1952 Class of Gloucester High School have appeared or have been discussed.

"Last fall I shot the largest lion to be brought out of Africa. Who am I?" That's the way "People and Their Professions" got started last week. It looked like a tough one, but Joan Alves, famous literary critic, saved the day for the panel when she exclaimed, "Why that could be no one else but John Alto, noted big game hunter." Richard Pearsall, Times news analyst, put his hand up at the last minute, but Mistress of Ceremonies, Elaine Avila, saw Miss Alves's hand first. "I was wrong anyway," remarked Mr. Pearsall after the program. "I thought it was John Davis, Barnum and Bailey's number one animal trainer."

Bill Decker, guest panelist and noted sports writer who covered the winter olympics this year, proved himself a worthy choice when he guessed the occupation of State Fire Chief Harold Cooney.

After a brief commercial given by comedienne Connie Silva for the makers of O-U Dog Food, the panel set out to discover the occupation of William Horne. When the panel failed on this question, members of the audience, Albert Joseph, Richard Hull, Ronald Silva, James Lewis, Stanley Homans, and Donald Phibodeau, in town for the annual Business Men's Convention, correctly answered that Mr. Horne was a window washer of New York's Empire State Building.

After Bob Getchell, the nation's favorite bebop artist, was quickly recognized by panelist Jack Hamor, a noted cartoonist, a shot around the audience by cameramen Thomas Harris and Richard Wagner showed that the house was full of celebrities. Sylvia Corliss, noted lecturer, was sitting with Carole Pata, newly elected president of United Airlines. Behind them sat the nation's leading women bankers, Sheila Meade and Suzanne Evans. The camera also gave television viewers a glimpse of General James Quinn, Colonel George Silva, and Major James Winn.

Getting back to the program, the profession of Paul Lucas, noted scholar, seemed to present another serious problem to the panel, but Ronald Matheson, famous coach of Texas Christian University, came through in regular form, when he revealed that Mr. Lucas was a gentleman who tutored college professors. The occupation of Angela Bertolino was the next problem put before the panel. Shirley Witham, a public nurse and guest panelist, incorrectly guessed that Miss Bertolino was the original "Rosie the Riveter." Since this was the only suggestion made by the panel during the allotted time, John Worrall, Robert Johnson, John Higgins, and Charles April, members of the audience in town to attend an Elks Convention, gave Miss Bertolino's correct occupation—that of an Hawaiian beach-comber.

Class Pro

Christopher Cecilio, pigeon breeder and racer, stumped the panelists, but Angela Lovasco, Grace Ventimiglia, and Leola Wallace, members of the audience, guessed it correctly the first time.

The last occupational problem was the position of Russell Parsons, Jr., a scientist who has made a new pudding from seaweed. William Stewart, another well-known cartoonist, and Arthur Wickey, famed sharpshooter, raised their hands at the same time. The emcee, Miss Avila, chose Mr. Stewart, who correctly guessed Mr. Parson's profession. And so ended last week's entertaining showing of "People and Their Professions" over G.H.S.—TV.

In a move to increase enlistments, last week the army permitted the induction ceremony at Fort Dix to be televised. The following young men were sworn in: John Conley, Stephen Crowell, John Degnan, Robert Elliott, Ralph Gibbs, Ronald Graham, Martin Hanrahan, Robert Morrissey, Kenneth Muniz, Kenneth Perry, and Robert Reed. Congratulations, gentlemen!

Another program televised last week over station G.H.S.—TV was the performance of the Civic Symphony Orchestra. First on the program was Miss Anna May Robator who, accompanied by the orchestra, played the "Warsaw Concerto" on the piano. For the next selection, Richard Brown, also accompanied by the orchestra, played "Stars and Stripes Forever" on the trumpet. The group then played "Tales from the Vienna Woods," followed by Irene Rocha, who gave a lovely rendition of "Moonlight Sonata." Another fine instrumentalist, Gerald Silveira, concluded the program with an inspiring march by John Philip Sousa. The orchestra, conducted by Mr. Richard Elliott, will give a performance next week, featuring the music of George Gershwin and starring guest soloist Carol Ann Churchill.

When "TV'S TOPS" reporter, Yvonne Silva, interviewed the winners of the G.H.S.—TV "Homemakers' Contest," Carolyn Bradley, first prize winner in the sewing division showed Miss Silva a handsome Harris tweed suit. Calvie Stanton won the second prize with her red velvet TV pajamas. The third prize was awarded to Maryalice Riley for her set of three fancy western shirts.

The first prize in the cooking division of this contest was awarded Nancy Thurston for her delicious pineapple pie. Louis McCallum received second prize for an orange chiffon cake made from her own recipe. Grace Young won the third prize for her strawberry shortcake supreme.

A special prize was awarded to Janice Bur gess who has concocted a new wonder cake. This cake contains no milk, sugar, flour, eggs, or butter, yet it is as light and fluffy as any conventional cake.

Another Homemakers' Contest will be held sometime during the next few months under the direction of Ruth Blatchford and Carol Lee Tucker.

News at home involving members of the Gloucester High Class of 1952 proved to be as entertaining as the regular programs.

At Vineyard Sound, Massachusetts, George Blair caught a world's record striped bass, and another record was made at the Indianapolis Speedway, when Grace Brooks, the first woman auto racer to win a race at Indianapolis, beat the previously undefeated speedway champs, Sherman Jones and Charles Wood.

Massachusetts Senator, Michael Jensen, has proposed that the army adopt Colonel Harold Layton's new artillery tactics. Major James O'Neill, instructor at the West Point Military Academy, pointed out the many strategical advantages of Colonel Layton's plan to a gathering of army officers in New York recently.

In Arizona, jet pilots Donald Whynott and Peter Marston, are testing out a new plane propelled by atomic energy. This plane was invented by mathematician Gerald Day, who many refer to as a second Einstein, and John Lufkin, an expert automotive engineer.

In Boston, Comedienne Concetta Billante is putting on a show to help raise money for a hospital drive headed by social worker Bonnie Barron. Ronald Fleet and his famous band, including the popular trumpet artist, Paul Lafata, the celebrated French horn artist, Donald Fialho, and pianist Bruce Craaybeck, will perform at the show. Jeanne Kennedy and Mildred Hannibal will play together on their electric guitars, and Moisha Kubinyi will give a modern dance interpretation of a traffic tie-up.

Evelyn Goulart has been voted the best dressed woman of the year, while Norma Goyetche ran a close second.

At a recent teachers convention, Nancy Boardman and Margaret Courant presented the results of their survey on the new methods being used to teach reading in primary grades. Also, at this convention, Judith Witham gave a very informative talk on what the YMCA's and the YWCA's are doing to help young people, and Emma Pettipas gave a talk on what the Girl and Boy Scout organizations do for young people.

Last night a passenger plane bound for Los Angeles from La Guardia airfield developed engine trouble and was successfully crash landed near Pike's Peak in Colorado by pilot Allan Smedburg, and co pilot Kenneth Cokely. Doctor Sumner Roper cared for the passengers, none of whom were seriously injured, with the aid of airline hostesses Madalene Burns and Joan Woodbury. Among the passengers from Massachusetts were Boston businessmen David Young, Carl Josephson, and Fred White, and their secretaries, Judith Keating, Maureen Welch, and Estella Murray. Journalist Carol Dagle, printer Charles Bona, sharpshooter John Thompson, druggist Robert Ryan, telephone operator Fay Sawyer, and librarian Emily Pike were other New England passengers aboard the plane.

Last week Jean Souza tied up traffic on Tremont Street in Boston for five hours, when she became so interested in a man-on-the-street TV broadcast that she forgot about her obligations as a motorist. Three policemen; Robert Gibson, Donald Sears, and Richard Simpson, and two firemen; Walter Souza, and Norman Sears, were required to straighten out the traffic jam. In the confusion, Phyllis Militello, another woman driver, chased Roderick MacDonald and Fred Rhodes, Boston financiers, from the sidewalk into the street where they were nearly knocked down by Angela Bannarito, a third woman driver. It is hoped that any future television programs will not again cause such drastic results among the spectators.

The "Americans Abroad" news programs of last week produced the following bits of information concerning various members of the 1952 Class of G.H.S.

From Brazil, Rotraud Juergens reported that Miriam Maguire, noted American archaeologist, discovered a cache of diamonds and gold in a cave near the Parana River. Another American, Donald Jenkins, was recently elected president of a coffee exporting firm in Rio de Janeiro, Miss Juergens reported. Also down South America way are New York business girls Anne Aldrich, Margaret Carignan, Frances Gray, Pat Enos, and Norma Sheave, who are spending their vacations in Bermuda. Incidentally, the famous Clark models, Laura Stephanio, Carolyn Mitchell, Mary-Alice Powers, Diane Lane, Pat Moore, and Cynthia Goulart, are vacationing in Bermuda.

Odilia Pereira, Vincenza Piazza, and Edward Swinson left for Paris aboard the Queen Mary, Saturday, to take up their jobs as Spanish interpreters at the United Nations. Also going abroad to work was James Oakes, Ronald McCarthy, and Eugene Strangman, who are bound for their new jobs as foremen in Arabian oil fields.

Serving in an army hospital in Japan are nurses Faye Anderson, Marilyn Hansen, Marcia Gronblad, and Shirley Tucker. Also serving with the Armed Forces in Japan are William Nichols, Thomas Rose, John Nickerson, Robert Saulnier, and Alfred Niemi.

Jean Bouchie, owner of "Le Grand Magasin," has recently returned from Paris, where she, with her famous models, Joan Bouchie, Barbara Oakes, Marianne Forrest, Sally Ann Tarr, and Caroline Dolloff, exhibited her fall creations.

Kenneth Tarr, with his assistants, Robert Josephson, and Robert Ritey, has gone on an expedition to the Belgian Congo for the purpose of capturing unusual snakes for the Central Park Zoo.

At Athens, Greece, two Americans have acquired Olympic honors. Rebecca Bicknell has won the 100-meter free style swim; Leroy Call, the 800-meter run. Speaking of the Olympics, it is being whispered in sports circles that Carolyn Doucette and Donna Tysver may try for the figure skating title at Oslo next winter.

Frank Rose is using the Sahara Desert as a testing ground for his most recent invention, a rocket-powered car. With Frank at the testing grounds are Roland Emery, famed atomic scientist; Russell Burgess, expert jet flyer; and Richard Carter, an automotive engineer.

Enjoying a vacation in the enchantingly colorful and romantic city of Venice are secretaries Doris Harvey, Jean Grimes, Shirley Brown, and Pat Lowe.

In Germany, Shirley Hurst, a supervisor of nurses; Deirdre Henderson, Pulitzer prize winner for her book on American education; and Laura Caron, physical education instructor who has discovered a preventative for sprained wrists and ankles, were very pleased to meet Klaus Berath, their former school chum, now Chancellor of Germany.

"Robert Smith, the eminent author, already famous for his books on travel and adventure, has done remarkably well with his first play," reported Natalie Mesnick several weeks ago, a guest critic on the T.V. program, "The Critics Speak." "A Rose for Irene," with Jer Klemmer in the title role, is a very well written play, having a well-presented disturbing theme," said Miss Mesnick. The supporting cast included Sylvia Siropke, Ronald Herz, Kendrick Rattray, Lawrence Joseph and Henry Moore.

A musical show, "Ah, Paris!" scored high with Isabelle Catto, another guest critic. This play is a satire on the tourists who visit that beautiful city. The acrobatic dance team, "The Four Winds," consisting of Virginia LaFlam, Judy Bertoni, Lillian Raymond, and Stephanie Lacey, displayed their amazing skill in the leading roles. The members of the chorus, Jean Anderson, Jean Brown, Mary Mistretta, Faye Budrow, Fay Bentley, and Janet Herrick, rendered excellent background music. A male chorus consisting of Peter Garland, David Hawley, Richard Rowe, Donald Souza, and John Powers, provided a pleasing contrast to the feminine voices.

Fred Conant and William Brown, in charge of the scenery for this production, did an extraordinary job with their lavish sets.

Lawrence Perry, the famous illustrator served as guest critic on last week's show. Mr. Perry reviewed a play concerning artists, called "The Easel." The stars, Shirley Cavanaugh, Mary Lou Stewart, and Philip Perry, portray artists living in Greenwich Village. The murder of another artist (played by Jean Adams) provides the dramatic plot.

"Jane Crouch, the first woman to design scenery for Broadway theaters, has done a superb job with the scenery for this play," said Mr. Perry.

Next week, Phyllis Tedesco, supervisor of nurses at one of Boston's largest hospitals, will review the play "All's Gone," starring Robert Thompson and Constance Veator.

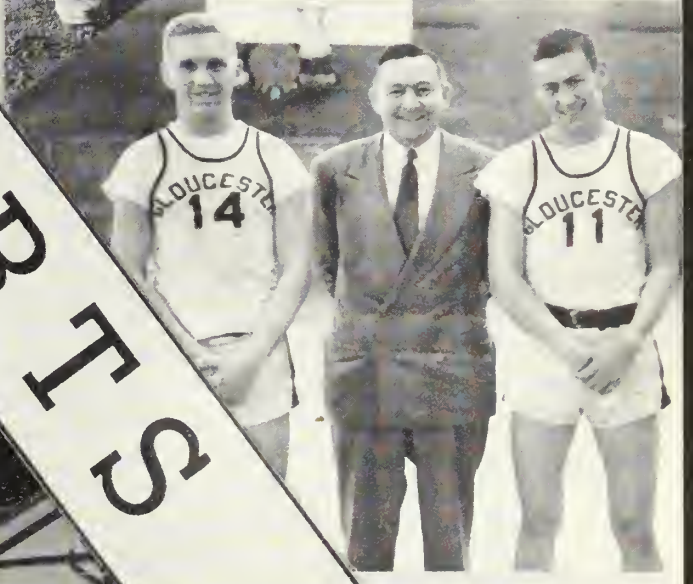

In an effort to get more people out to vote this fall, one of a series of projects sponsored by the League of Women Voters, the new president of which is Sheila McCue, was televised last week, and it proved to be a very interesting program. This program staged a polling place in action on Voting Day. The chairman of this project, Barbara Lane, gave explanations and information as the program progressed. Among the supervising election officials were Sam Favazza, Philip Osmond, and Dana Davis. June Andersen and Joan Pierce gave out ballots, Mary Eason checked the names as the voters cast their ballots in the ballot box tended by Salvatore Scola. Arlene Andrews and Elizabeth Huckleby checked the voters out. To illustrate the fact that people from all walks of life go out to vote, Miss Lane chose the following people to act as model voters: medical secretary Sylvia McMillan; housewife Agnes Frontiero; fishing boat captain Emilio Spinola; businessman James Sidlowski; model Pat Anderson; nurse Ann Armour; WAF Katherine Doyle; waitress Barbara Develle; authoress Shirley Parsons; and seamstress Elizabeth White.

Last week we had the pleasure of viewing a new show, "Personalities in the Sports World," emceed by Fitz Lutkin. The first gentleman interviewed was Leonard Oakes, the professional hockey player, who divulged several of his playing secrets. Barbara Merrick, the famous field hockey player, was introduced to the audience next. Miss Merrick and Mr. Oakes held an interesting conversation on the differences between ice and field hockey.

The last five minutes of this show were devoted to a question and answer period. Joseph Polizzia, Samuel Mocer, William Nixon, Kenneth Oliver, Charles Brackett, and Salvatore Parisi asked several thought-provoking questions which were answered by the guests.

In the following weeks, Robert Layton, last year's batting champ; Daniel Asaro, the professional football player; Kenneth Roland, the well known basketball coach; Florence McLean, the top woman golfer, and John Hurst, football coach at Notre Dame, will be on Mr. Lutkin's fine program.

The following members of the Gloucester Women's Club are going to sponsor a special surprise broadcast on July 4, 1964 over station G.H.S. - TV. Evelyn Erkkola, Katherine Kaho, Mary Leaman, Collette McKay, Dorothy McTigue, Nancy Marchant, Nancy O'Malley, Peggy Ann O'Malley, Lorraine Johnson, and Nancy O'Leary. Don't miss it!

To a wonderful kid who has tried to help me and Kenny. Good luck to you and George always.

To a good kid
